Windy days,
Even with a nighttime haze.
All want to sleep,
The cows and the sheep.
Hear the pounding snow,
Eerily outside it will blow.
Rain now has covered a lonely crow.

Weathering the Weather

By Ben Rominke, minister

I have heard from multiple people and news sources of the winter weather that is coming soon. As I have already taken a spill on some ice, I plan to have even more caution going into this. With my own injury and accidents at large it, I cannot help but think of our safety physically as well as spiritually. We have weather reporters and apps that let us know what to expect in the coming hours and days.

When I think of the uncertainty of what might come next I think of the words in how the day of the Lord will come like a thief in the night (1 Thess. 5:2). While that should keep us in a proper perspective it is also true that hardships can come unsuspectingly as well. I wish we had a hardship radar and “future cast” that tells what the future might look like.

So, amidst the weather we have and amidst the storms of life we must weather, what are we to do? Proverbs 10:25 says, “When the storm passes through, the wicked are swept away, but the righteous are an everlasting foundation.” The righteous do not withstand because of their own brilliance and self-righteousness but because of who they turn to. The Lord God. Let us use such times as these to reflect on how firmly we look to The King.

Happy Anniversary to my wife and thank you for weathering life with me so far.
