Cracking with Egg-citement

By Ben Rominske, minister

Easter has long been a favorite time of the year for me. As a child this was almost entirely due to the great deal of Reese's cups I got to eat. We also used to go down to the Smoky mountains where I have some fond memories. Similar to Christmas, this is a holiday that historically has a secular and religious component. Some people celebrate both, one of the sides, or none of it. Secularly, Easter is a time of eggs and excitement for fun times and better weather. On the religious side it is a specific time to remember what the Lord's church partakes of weekly.

Yet the immense joy from Christ's conquering of sin and death, for which Easter Sunday centers on, cannot escape the marring and torture our Savior underwent for us. It ought to help many be quite grateful for the freedom Jesus brought to His people. Though when we think about this holiday we are actually similar to the day of Easter.

We are people who have to interact with the secular and religious. The vast majority of our jobs and education is done in a secular setting as well as many of the other activities and pastimes we enjoy. There is a lot of fun and good times throughout all of that, but we cannot neglect the far more important side of religion. We as God's creation are a reminder of Him who made us and those of us who are in the body of Christ are a continual remembrance of His sacrifice and resurrection.

So with all the chocolate and eggs, crosses and tombs, do not forget your place as a part of Christ's light that illuminates in you. Have fun with the bunnies and pastel colors. If you get the chance, enjoy the time gathering with family and friends. All the while honor the burial and the color of the robes which once were red but now are white as snow. Carry on in you the joy of the resurrection. As Ecclesiastes 2:24-25 says "There is nothing better for a person than that he should eat and drink and find enjoyment in his toil. This also, I saw, is from the hand of God, for apart from him who can eat or who can have enjoyment?"
