Bulletin for the week of February 12, 2023 VOL 28/75 NO 7

Words cannot describe my gratitude and thanks for what I get to do. I've said many times this past week that there is not another place or field I would rather work in. I am incredibly blessed to be able to do this work, and to take trips like I have with the lectureship and PTP. Please know the support and encouragement is not unnoticed and is much appreciated. As I will say many times, thank you!

Often, I feel when we are asked about what we are thankful for we like to provide these bigger or broad answers: God's love, the Church, Jesus, family, mercy, grace, etc. I want to be clear that those are things we should be thankful for. Do not feel bad if that is what came to your mind.

The days pass by as we live and grow. They lead us to meet friends as we come and go.

You may say "Goodbye" or "Hello" to a great variety of people you know.

From the neighbors down the street, someone at school, a person in line at the store, and so many more.

In circumstances both usual and odd, we find and build relationships thanks to God.

It is life He has given to us, a life worth living. One of laughter, love, and oh so much giving.

So, as the days pass by and we grow, I hope you too are thankful for all the places you've been and people you know

Continued From Front → In one of the sessions I was in at the lectureship, a widower described some of things his wife went through having Parkinson's. At one point she could not eat on her own and had to get a feeding tube. He said it wasn't until then he realized he should be thankful for the ability to chew his own food. Something so small that can be overlooked along with the innumerable other blessings we have.

He also said this "There will never be a time in your life where your burdens outweigh your blessings" Let that sink in. If one is honest about whatever the trial or hardship is, and an attempt is made to count blessings it will become clear soon enough.

An attitude of gratitude, saying thank you starts with the big, the obvious, the evident but it ought to end with the small and specific. As you finish reading this article I challenge you to make a list of 3 bigger blessings and 3 small ones. Why not write them down now and right below?
