THE BONDS WE MAKE

From the desk of Ben Rominske, minister

*Across the borders
out of arms reach,
the solace of a friendship is born.*

*A treasure to hold close helping one to broaden his horizons,
learning new lingo along the way.*

*A chance to view a different perspective
sharing moments,
both happy and sad.*

*A place one enjoys a smile or two feeling like he's talking to the person next door,
without realizing the miles in between.*

By Brenda Arledge

As you may know, this week we have the distinct privilege of hosting a meeting with Mickey and Cindi. While I have yet to meet either of them as of writing this, I know many here and in the area treasure them dearly. I found the poem here as a remembrance to the bonds we make with those we love. We become separated by time, distance, and many other things.

The reason Mickey and Cindi are here, the reason we all have a bond, is because of Christ's sacrifice and blood that makes us His. The bonds we make in Christ are some of the most valuable and I know you all understand that quite well. I look forward to this week with the studying, laughing, and love that will be shown.

May we be forever grateful of the bonds we make.
